Content

The role of archives and libraries in our digital age is one of the most pressing concerns of humanists, scholars, and citizens worldwide. This collection brings together specialists from academia, public libraries, governmental agencies, and non-profit archives to pursue common questions about value across the institutional boundaries that typically separate us.

Includes contributions from key figures in the field such as Alberto Manguel (Director of the National Library of Argentina), Jeannette Bastian (Former Territorial Librarian of the United States Virgin Islands), and Robert Darnton (Former Director of the University Library at Harvard University).

Interrogates central questions in Digital Humanities with perspectives from theoretical and practical approaches.

Includes global voices that address the reach of Digital Scholarship, Archives, and Libraries in the contemporary moment.
